in the hespital as a result of the last game that they played with the solders and the colicar boys did not feel as though they ought to play with one man missing. Leonard then went to the first university toam for a game with them, but could get no date arranged. The only game that the high school has is one with the Ogden high school.

Mercur Team Coming.

Denver, which was scheduled for next Denver, which was scheduled for next week, has been postposed. Mr. Axton was unable to get any satisfaction out of the Denver Wheel cibb as to the arrangements, and he decided to give it up. The Christians will play the Mercur eleven on the 18th, insteau of going to Denver. Manager I. H. French of the Mercur eleven sent a challenge to Mr. Axton yesterday for a game on that date, and it was promptly accepted. The Mercur team includes several players formerly well known in this sity. Captair. Paul Kimball was full back on the university team in its sixys of capitall. Pail Kimball was full back on the university team in its days of greatest strength; Dykman, Reading and Howard all played on the champoon Y. M. C. A. teams of 1897 and 1898. There are also a number of old college players on the team, and it will give the Christians the hardest game they have had yet this year.

SCENE AT THE FIESTA.

When the Beers next brought in for suite their tisnal bales of wool instead of sertling with them at once, as customary, he put them off on the bles that he had not yet received the current market prices. Having got the wool safely away to the coast, he dispatched an accomplice on a curious errand. The accomplice would ride over to a farm, and, after discussing with the old Boer the condition of his veid, cattle, etc., for an hour or two, would, in the usual Dutch fashion, then approach the real object of his visit by easually remarking. That's a bast business about Mr. Journson going wrong. "Why, what's that you say?" the Boer would reply. "Oh, haven't you heard? They say Johnson a affairs are in a very bad way, and thus he's expected to smash at any time. "Allemachier." gasps the Boer. "why, he's got a batch of my wool not paid for? "If that is so,' says the accomplice, "if I were you I would go and see about it at once." So in the course of a few days Boer after Boer turned up at Johnson's store, where their feiers were confirmed, but each was told confidentially by Johnson, "Well, you know." I shouldn't like you, at any rate, to suffer, so just take anything you like from the store in settlement. It was a grand rise, and the last Boer who cleared out with a wantoon load of pockel manufacchiefs went away thankful that he had, at any rate, got something.
